Cohasset
High School

Dedication

MR. CHARLES DAVIS

You came to Cohasset High School as a teacher of mathematics but soon made your influence felt even beyond the classroom. Your face, lighted by a ready smile, quickly became familiar to everyone. As track coach and advisor to the Pep Club, you have clearly shown a strong interest in the student body. You have become a true friend to every student—a much admired and respected one. For your unceasing enthusiasm, patience, and devotion as a teacher and a friend we, the class of 1964, dedicate our yearbook to you, Mr. Charles Davis.

"Mark, were you talking?"

"Here's to you, Mr. Davis!"

On the field

"Always with that ticket box!"

Hall of the Great Buddha—the largest wooden building in the world.

Typically friendly high school girls.

Oh! what a cute Buddha!

My summer in Japan as Cohasset's AFS representative was the most rewarding and valuable experience of my life. It gave me many unforgettable memories for which I shall be forever grateful to the people of Cohasset who made it all possible. Never before have I seen, done, and learned so much. Most important, I now truly understand the truthfulness of the AFS motto:

"Walk together, talk together,
O, ye peoples of the earth;
Only then shall ye find peace."

Elspeth in Cohasset

The year starting June 26, 1963, has been the most wonderful of my life. Thanks go to everyone in Cohasset for helping make my visit as happy and rewarding as it has been.

Saying "Thank-you" seems a most inadequate way of expressing my appreciation to the Hoopers and to "Cohasset." However, I hope that everyone realizes how much I really do appreciate all that has been done for me.

Cohasset High is a school I shall remember as my own, and I doubt that I'll ever forget the friendly faces I now know so well.

My new sisters and brother.

Senior Signatures

Many things about a person's personality and interests can be discovered through an analysis of his handwriting. With this in mind, the members of the Literary Staff set to work studying the signatures of the '64 Seniors. The results were very interesting. Some signatures immediately brought to mind certain ideas about the person. We learned many things concerning the pasts of some Seniors and the futures of others. Anyway, we thought you should know!

Pat Anderson — "Hatchet" . . . thumbing to Boston . . . distinctive laugh . . . English Leather . . . a booking?! . . . the floating dent

Tom Arcands — lives in a shell? . . . Y.A. Turtle . . . very neat . . . mumble*!!?*, mumble . . . how's your————? . . . chicken little

Judy Barnes — a future hairdresser? . . . adventurous . . . '62 blue and white Fords . . . Boston . . . a special ring

Eddie Bunnock — good sense of humor . . . fishing . . . Flag Day . . . treasured broom . . . Buddies . . . Spanish II

Linda Bennitt — red hair . . . slumber parties . . . a certain changed sign . . . very generous . . . candid pictures . . . retreats . . . oh, those tardy bells!

Sue Boyer — a curtain ring . . . five-finger discount . . . nice eyes . . . Coady parties . . . good posture?! . . . midnight visitors

Rebecca Bates — "ready 'n willing" . . . camping and bicycles . . . class ring . . . Ballroom dancing school . . . "do blondes really have more fun?"

Barbara Brown — the most gullible checker at A&P? . . . waiting for mail . . . that union meeting! . . . "switching" . . . gave up boys and took up men?!

David Buckley — slightly eccentric? . . . a black derby . . . against Varsity boys who play "Joe College" in high school . . . a Dark Horse in '63

Margo Carey — quiet but artistic . . . gambling in Candy's cellar . . . variety shows . . . a treasured cat . . . voice lessons

Lynn Carraher — perfect cartwheels?? . . . "nuts 'n bolts" . . . naturally curly hair . . . bundle boys . . . smoking sickness . . . Turkish taffy

Class History

When we were in seventh grade . . .

Girl Scout Troop #62 that Conservation Badge was rough.

The "sophisticated" seventh graders

The new addition

7th Grade

Bewildered and confused by the strange labyrinth of corridors, we entered C.H.S. as seventh graders. We were reduced from Deer Hill upperclassmen to the lowest form of student in the high school. After the regimentation of grammar school, seventh grade responsibilities and freedoms came as a shock to most of us. We faced new horrors of pink tardy slips, locker combinations, hours of unaccustomed homework, and homeroom detentions for chatterboxes. Reluctant to settle down in study halls, we spent many eighth periods making x's in tiny squares of graph paper. However, all this was overshadowed by our new high school spirit. We cheered the team and worshipped football heroes. Suddenly society-conscious, we organized our own record hops at the Community Center. As serious and dedicated magazine campaigners, we canvassed the town. (The status symbol that year was a VIP button, awarded to prominent salesmen.) Madly, we joined the high school clubs and even participated in the "Great Lunchroom Strike" sponsored by our upperclassmen. Cohasset High even made the newspapers! As seventh graders we did not have too much to say about high school affairs, but our eagerness earned us recognition.

8th Grade

As the experienced upperclassmen in the junior high school, we assumed a casual attitude toward the new, struggling seventh graders. We enjoyed the novelty of the new addition, but were dismayed at being isolated from the high school. That year, the administration instituted honor study halls in the auditorium; however, they proved rather dishonorable and were soon abolished.

Becoming more and more aware of social life, we began attending the high school dances. As the girls were the aggressors in those days, the Sadie Hawkins Dance—a girl-ask-boy affair—had the best attendance of any dance. This was also the year of some sensational parties at the Macdonald's, Low's, and Stannard's. As June approached, we became impatient to be official high schoolers. Planning our course of study for the freshman year, we felt that at last we were on our way!

Nothing to do but shell peas in those days?

Olympic stars have to start somewhere!

9th Grade

Freshmen at last! We soon found that this honor brought increased responsibilities and often problems. In October we were introduced to the Iowa tests. Who can ever forget those name grids and those hundreds of answer blocks? Our first class meeting was held and we elected Chris Casady as Class President. Our two major projects as Freshmen were a class dance and a car wash. Our class dance, "The Cherry Blossom Ball," was held in April and was the most profitable dance we ever put on. Also in the spring, a group of us made the trip to Stratford, Conn., to see the educational and truly entertaining performance of Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night." (Some of us remember the long bus ride more than anything else, though!) The year was highlighted by the arrival of our class pins. Engraved on them was 1964, our graduation date. How far away it seemed then! Our Freshman year brought not too much money, not too many projects, but a lot of fun. And we were full-fledged members of the high school set!

Sure I know how to row!

Come on, Sue; you know I got that point!

Cozy Joe in uniform

You aren't going to take my picture with that?!

Of course we have to stay awake all night!

So what if it is 4 a.m.?

10th Grade

As Sophomores we felt very much a part of high school life. Steve Humphreys became Class President and we soon formulated various money-making plans. We had a very successful cake sale in the fall, followed by a less profitable dance, "The Mardi Gras," in February. (At the dance an attempt to play a twist record was quickly squelched by Mr. Wunschel, but still, everyone had a wonderful time.) Finally, in the spring we had a more lucrative, but wet, car wash for all concerned. That year, as we began turning sixteen, walking suddenly became old-fashioned. Those with licenses became the "big wheels," literally. One of the most exciting events of our Sophomore year came in May when we ordered our class rings. We were well on our way to being upperclassmen!

Another game of pool? But I want to sleep!

11th Grade

Suddenly we were sophisticated upperclassmen! With Steve Humphreys again presiding, we began one of the busiest two years of our high school careers. Early in the fall our class rings arrived. In November we initiated a new tradition by holding our class dance, "The Junior Prom," at the Deer Hill School. As entertainment we engaged Cozy Joe's band, which soon began appearing at other dances and private parties. Various members of the class began receiving special recognition. Pat Skehan and Bruce Macdonald were chosen to represent the school at Girl's and Boy's State. In assembly, George Casey was presented the Harvard Book Award. We all had our first try at College Boards with the P.S.A.T.'s and then the S.A.T.'s and Achievements in spring. With spring came the controversial election for the next year's Student Council President. Dan Buckley won, proving his slogan that "a Dark Horse can win."

Those wild teenage drivers

The jolly, jolly Juniors

More helpers than cars

Our second car wash, held in May, provided both money and fun. Also in May, we learned that Chris Cooney was to spend the next year in Denmark and Chris Casady to spend the summer in Japan, as Cohasset's AFS representatives. When June came and the old Seniors left, we became anxious to return as Seniors ourselves.

12th Grade

At last, at last we were part of that elite class—The Seniors! All crowded into one homeroom, we listened to daily announcements of the many activities and duties of Senior Year. We welcomed our own exchange student, Elspeth Hodgson from South Africa. As Steve Humphreys entered his third term as President, we set to work raising the necessary funds for our prom and graduation. Our first venture was the traditional Homecoming Dance, highlighted by the crowning of Elspeth as queen. The Tessahoc staff was chosen, with Doug Macdonald as editor. Thinking of the future, we read countless college catalogues, took more College Boards, visited various campuses, attended teas and interviews, and finally rushed to get our applications ready on time. During the fall, school spirit rose, sparked by weekly rallies and signs with "stimulating" slogans. Spirit reached an all-time high with the unforgettable Holbrook game. New honors came to various members of the class as Senior awards were presented. A new tradition was begun in December when the first Sports Award Dance was held. Around January we became infected with that contagious disease, "Senioritis." It became increasingly difficult to concentrate on schoolwork, as more interesting things approached. In March we presented our class play, "The Stage Door," starring Linda Reynolds and Cornelius O'Brien. Anxious to build up our still low treasury funds, we set in motion plans for another car wash and cake sale, and for a Senior Variety Show. Then suddenly the year was almost over. Finals came closer as we made last preparations for the Prom and Graduation Day. Our last days at C.H.S. were happy ones, but tinged with sadness. We began to realize that our high school days had been some of the best days of our lives.

In Memoriam

On November 22, 1963, the world bowed its head in respect for a great man who had met an untimely death by an assassin's bullet.

John Fitzgerald Kennedy, the thirty-fifth President of the United States, won the elections of 1960 despite two major political setbacks: his youth and his religion. There were those who supported his ideals and aspirations as President and there were those who did not, but by most thinking citizens of the Western World, he was recognized as a leader who sought to find solutions to his country's problems and to ease the hardships of his allies.

Throughout the surface of the globe, countries near and far, old and new, mourned the death of this great man. The fatal shot fired brought sorrow and grief not only to the American people, but to the world.

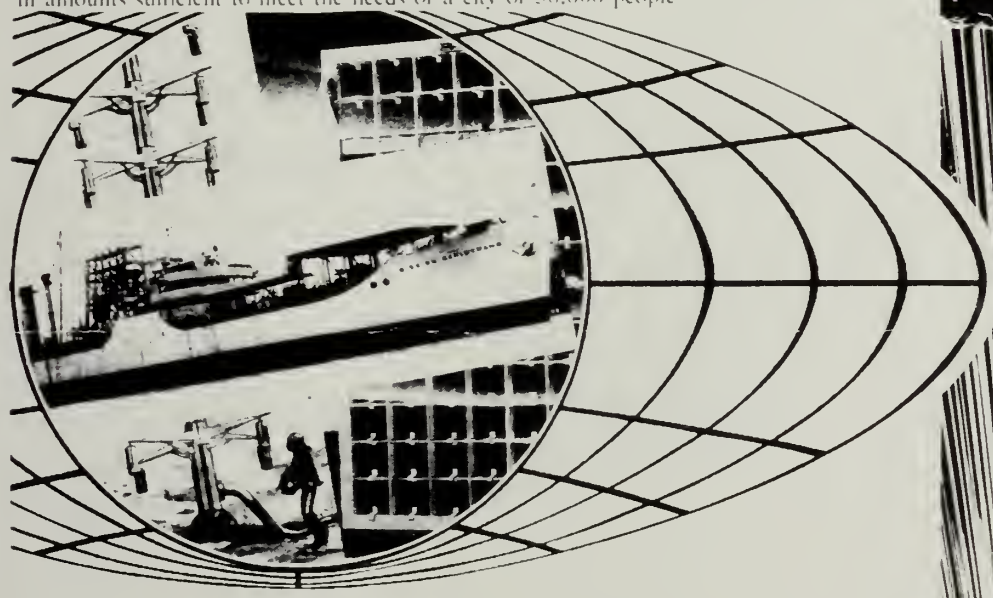
MASSA MANUFACTURES – WORLD'S LARGEST SONAR TRANSDUCERS...

A major milestone in the extensive ASW project of underwater surveillance was passed as a new gigantic sonar transducer was lowered into the ocean

Designed and built by Massa Division of Cohu Electronics, Inc. in Hingham, Massachusetts, this 30 ton transducer is five stories high and can efficiently convert into underwater sound, enormous quantities of electric power in amounts sufficient to meet the needs of a city of 50,000 people



Another major milestone in the extensive ASW project of long range underwater surveillance was passed as a new sonar sensor was completed by Massa Division of Cohu Electronics, Inc., in Hingham, Mass.

The giant structure, which will span across miles at great ocean depths, employs thousands of ultra sensitive hydrophones. The uniformity of operating characteristics of these hydrophones exceeds the precision of any previously mass produced elements.

*If the individual sonar receiving elements employed in the assembly were placed end to end, they would reach a height of 13,000 feet, which is almost 10 times that of the Empire State Building
